Don't believe half the war announcements you see in the papers and don't credit the data of a military movement 'till it actually occurs.

We, as Kentuckians are proud of the Legion boys. Col. Castleman is justly a favorite, he dispenses with a "lot" unnecessary "red tape."

I am in receipt of so many invitations to commencement exercises that I cannot personally acknowledge. "The will for the deed" please.

My young friend, Bert Moreman, of Shanneton, has sent me several other friends a very pretty, pathetic song "Flood of Shawanaw.".

The Christian Contributor Society has been reorganized and has had two pleasant meetings at Mrs. W. H. Gough's and Mrs. R. H. Nevitt's.

I have the prospectus for the May Mad Festival at Cincinnati. The artists and the music are the very first in oratorio and opera and are no considered in Europe and in all the great English Festivals.

Chickadee with his giant intellect has a woman's tender heart. In our admiration of Admiral Dewey let us applaud the hero of Manila with the same noble attributes, money that love, in his care for the enemy's wounded.

I am glad to see that Mr. J. H. Bacon seems to be unanimous choice as president of the Commercial Club. Mr. Bacon is an earnest industrial worker and the May Festival is due in a great measure to his untiring efforts. Mr. Bacon was more than kind and considerate to all of the ladies who were representative of the Festival and we give him three cheers!

It is one of woman's duties to make the most of her personal appearance, old or young, the art of dressing helps the plain woman and improves the pretty one, it is the knowing how to dress that shows her off. Every woman should be interested in her clothes, enough to appear well. No woman, however beautiful, can afford to neglect the small details of dress, it is the adornment, but how it is placed and worn.

My young married friends in the city are down on "flat"—modern "flats," little ones, like less lives, termed "nests of roses." We have those now instead of love in a cottage of pet romantic days with its woodbine and roses and its little garden. Some "flats," we know, are "dreams of delight" but one has to be blessed with a superabundance of this world's goods to revel in them. Love in a "flat" is to be applauded for not wanting.

Brother Jenkins gave us a most entertaining, interesting talk last Sunday at his trip to Norfolk, Va., to attend the Southern Baptist Convention. I felt my Southern blood tingle when he described his feelings in Richmond, Va., as he viewed the historic spots of the houses and graves of those who gave up their lives purely for principle and for a just cause. He went to Mount Vernon, Washington City and he is pleased to be an American, but rejoices that he is a Baptist preacher for as he looked down on the Senate and the House of Representatives and compared them with the Convention he felt the preference for looks and intelligence was all for the side of the latter. He says Dave Smith is about as handsome as any baring Bailey, of Texas. Heaven save the mark! But "Gus" Dave was more than courteous and ranks as lightning with the Solons. Bro. P.—says the little between Reed and Bailey are not exaggerated. The singing by the choir was better even than usual with a solo by Ed Price.

Jealousy is by no means distinctly feminine. We are told and we know it is not confined to either sex or any species. For instance a dog is often times jealous and the dove that "potic emblem of love and tenderness" has an amount of the "green eyed monster." Are human hearts responsible then for that which is evidently one of their characteristics? Emphatically! Jealousy is distorted virtue—nothing more or less. The reason, I suppose, women are considered to possess it more acutely is because they take less pains to suppress it. Love is of all virtues the most beautiful but when wounded, past healing, it becomes a vice and one of its forms we call jealousy. If there is a just cause for it, it is petty jealousy takes hold of a woman's life it warps her very existence.

I notice quite a eulogy to Col. John F. Floyd, the Columbus boy, who was ordered to go to Gen. Shafter for service. His patriotism as he is a descendant from Col. John Floyd, the famous Kentucky Indian fighter, who was with Daniel Boone in early days. Col. Floyd did much to open up Kentucky. The Floyd is also descended on his mother's side from Revolutionary patriots. My uncle, Samuel Beall married a Miss Loyd, near relatives. I remember Col. Floyd, father of the same Columbus boy being at my father's home when I was quite young and I well remember how very veritable and interesting he was in conversation. The Floyd are descended from the same Revolutionary ancestors (Scottish Irish stock) from whom President- in- fact I remember my father's uncle telling us that the Floyd's, McKinley's, Brockedridge's, Jefferson's and Davis families all belonged to an ancient Virginia family mixed with an Indian "Princess" blood Captain John Floyd was an officer in the war.

A BORN SOLDIER.

The Littlest Volunteer.

A six-year-old boy who stands guard at Little Headquarters in Boston.

The littlest volunteer in the state is on self imposed duty at the office of Adjutant General Dalziel at the headquarters every day. He is Frederick Roche, a lad of 6 years. When he first made his appearance at the office, he carried a toy gun, the muzzle of which when grounded reached to the top of his head. He took up his station at the outer door and made it his duty to prevent arms and greet every visitor in a military manner.

FRED ROCHE ON GUARD.

Every day since then he has spent a portion of his time on guard. Frederick is a born soldier. He lives with his parents at the Hotel Roxford, and his playthings are all soldiers. He has an army of his own, and his thoughts are of war. How he found his way to the militia headquarters of the state is a mystery, but there he is.

He is a bright boy and can go through manual of arms with speed and precision.

The other day he approached a sturdy hand stranger who was wandering about the corridors adjacent to General Dalton's room and, presenting arms, said, "I don't want any Spaniards here."—Boston Herald.

Steering a Catboat.

When sailing a boat under the hand, it is customary to handle the tiller by standing to leeward and placing the hip against it. In this manner both hands are left to handle the sheet, or if the sheet be given a twist around one of the cleats to ease the strain the other hand may be used to steer. As to the matter of catching the sheet around a cleat to make it easier to hold, never fasten it in such a way that it cannot be loosened at a moment's notice. The proper manner is to give it a single turn and hold it with one hand. It may be easily thrown off or let slide over the cleat when necessary. This position may be seen in the case of a boat coming head on. She is pulling rather hard, and the steersman has found difficulty in holding both tiller and sheet, so he is sitting on the cleat on the coaming on the leeward side, in this manner having the boat under perfect control.—Harper's Round Table.

Lost.

"Oh, my," cried he, "I'm lost, I did!"

Searchingly looking down, "I've lost the key to my trunk, I did!"

Rubbing his eyes, "I know, I know!"

"But, my dear," cried he, "I'm lost, I did!"

"But it's not your trunk," said the other, "the trunk is in the trunk!"

The evoked word "trunk" was what fell off his tongue.

"Now, my dear," cried he, "I'm lost, I did!"

The Big Back Yard.

A little girl who was visiting the country was delighted. Every moment of the time was a delight to her. There was the house in which she was staying, standing in a great sea of rice. All around the big back yard, such as she had never seen before. But it was the big far across the house that pleased the little city girl best.

"What do you like best of it all?" asked some one, enjoying her pleasure.

"Oh," she said, "I like the big back yard, such as she had never seen before. But it was the big far across the house that pleased the little city girl best."

VOLUNTEER NURSES.

Women Disappointed Because Their Officers Have Been Rejected.

This war is likely to be a stag party despite the efforts of hundreds of women to enter the service.

The official announcement that no women are wanted in the impending conflict would seem to indicate that for once women would not be permitted to invade the province of man.

After all the progress they have made in coming out from under the mantle of the nineteenth century it seems the nineteenth century is about to close with so great an event as a foreign war without the presence of the gentler sex.

The preparations are for the nursing to be done exclusively by men. The women may be needed later. They will then be called upon, in the event of a protracted conflict, to enter the military hospitals which will be established.

Only trained nurses, practiced in the science of nursing, reliable and prompt, by sense of duty, will be sent to minister to the sick and wounded.

Conditions have so changed since the civil war that the business of providing nurses will be given as careful and systematic attention as the calling out of volunteers.

The nursing will not devolve upon mothers, sisters, wives and sweethearts, as it did then. At that time there were no schools for nurses as now. The women of today will have to intrust their loved ones who fall on the field of battle to the scientific care of women unknown to them, but whose knowledge of surgery and medicine will make their dear ones fare better than in their own hands.

The trained nurses of St. Louis hold themselves in readiness to respond should they be called upon. Many have already volunteered and were disappointed when told their services were not needed. Some volunteered because they felt it their duty to do so, others because they thought it the opportunity of a lifetime to travel and see the country and others because of its being an honor.

Mrs. R. B. Andrews of 4555 Delmar boulevard applied for admission as nurse. Mrs. Andrews is a Quaker and believes that without the services of the trained female nurse there will be much suffering.

She thinks all the men who go should go to fight and leave the nursing to the women.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Nellie Grant's Citizenship.

A bill has been introduced in the house by Mr. Pearson of North Carolina to restore to Mrs. Nellie Grant Sartoris her American citizenship, which she lost by marriage with a foreigner. It is to be hoped that somebody in congress will see the injustice that is done women in compelling them to lose their citizenship by marriage with a foreigner and amend the bill that it shall provide that no woman who is a citizen of the United States shall lose her citizenship by marriage as long as she remains in this country, and that a return to her native land at any time, whether husband be living or dead, shall immediately restore to her citizenship in the United States, without loss of rights and privileges.—Woman's Tribune.

Woman's Violation.

For triumphant scorn of the tin soldier who declines to fight where there are no ladies present give credit to the woman taker of the tin soldier in the grand never was and does not hope to be. For a season she has borne the condescending congratulations of young women in her set who center with fellows of the Seventh, and this, the Seventh's defection, is her supreme opportunity. She always knew that they wouldn't amount to anything if the country needed them, that they only drilled for the girls in the gallery, and she is thankful to have had to her a real man, one who keeps out of mock heroics and away from daisies.—New York Press.

Emergency Dress.

"Women are so anxious to having everything done for them," said Miss Anna Barrows, talking to the women of the "Household Economy" committee, "that they have made the slightest thing what to do in case of an emergency in their domestic affairs. In camp life a man can carry a bag of flour to a place where there is water, open the bag, stir up a cake by substituting only as much water as is needed, and the result is a stick, put up over the fire and keep it turning until in time he has bread. He does it without any of the impediments a woman would consider essential."—New York Times.

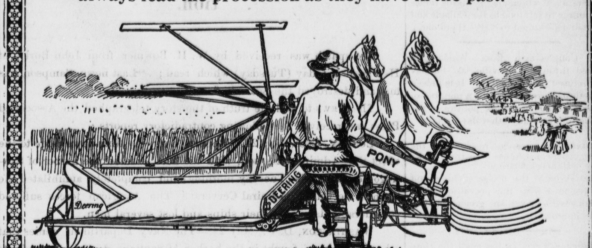

Books for the Babies.

Babies are not being altogether forgotten by the folks who manufacture all sorts of things for baby's use. Their little books at present are made of white or colored card, often covered with very fine pictures, such as some of them are ornamented in tiny floral designs, some trimmed with very fine gold, and others with ribbon, and others with baby ribbons. The books are exceedingly good and easily cleaned.

FREE RURAL MAILS.

FOOD ROADS WILL MAKE BETTER DELIVERY FACILITIES.

Another Strong Inducement to the Betterment of Highways—Plan by Which Country Districts Would Be Greatly Benefitted—Delivery as Schools.

In presenting my work as special agent and road expert, writes E. G. Harrison, I am frequently called upon in an advisory way to designate routes to be maintained or improved in other words, to determine this I consider which will give the best results to the greatest number of people.

I was pleased to see, in the recent report of the Hon. Perry S. Heath, first assistant postmaster general, his approval of rural free delivery of mails, and his determination to extend it as far as the appropriation would permit. In this direction I see an opportunity for the road inquiry to work in harmony with the postoffice department. The objects may be substituted in many cases on these roads for star routes and messenger service with saving in cost and better service.

The advantages of delivering letters to factories and other industrial establishments, particularly where large numbers are employed, need not be dwelt upon. The mails left at public schools can be distributed to a great number of families through the pupils living remote from postoffice and carrier routes. Letters brought to the nearest school for mailing can be taken by the rural letter carrier to the nearest postoffice for mailing. Teachers can give these letters as object lessons in giving suggestions and instruction in regard to proper plain and neat addressing, etc.

In schools remote from postoffices the teachers might with advantage be made stamp remitters and in this way families far away from postoffices can be supplied with stamps, stamped envelopes and postal cards. This will promote letter writing and use of mails and will also insure more regular attendance.

I would respectfully recommend that in the selection of roads in the future for improvements the above suggestions be considered and that the postoffice department in establishing routes for rural free delivery use the improved roads whenever possible.

The carrier whenever practicable should be allowed to arrange with the officials having charge of the improved roads for himself to act as inspector of the roads and the road over which his route runs. In this way he could many times prevent waste and damage to the road from sundry abuses or flaws, and he could also report promptly to the road officials all washouts or other damage of importance requiring immediate attention. He should be allowed to receive such compensation as he and the road officials may agree upon. This compensation would enable him to equip himself for better service and need not interfere with the prompt delivery of mails, and at the same time would help to secure proper maintenance of the road.

I would respectfully suggest that the road inquiry of the department of agriculture and the postoffice department be harmonized on the lines above mentioned to secure the best possible advantages for the business, social and educational interests of the people.

BRECKENRIDGE NEWS.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 25 1898

LOUD AND STRONG

Was The Kick Made by The Breckenridge Delegate.

Complaint Made at the Commercial Convention Against Unfair Discrimination

Breckenridge county was well represented at the Commercial Convention held at Louisville Wednesday and Thursday week before last. Those present were J. D. Habbage, F. N. D'Hay, H. V. Harris and Ed. Goodnight, of Cloverport, Charles Blanford, of Bewleyville and V. G. Babbage, of Hardinsburg.

During the discussion of the good roads topic in the Convention Ed. Goodnight, of Cloverport, called attention to the discrimination that existed in Louisville against Breckenridge county asphalt. He charged the city of Louisville with acting in bad faith by so constructing the plans and specification for asphalt streets that the Kentucky producers of rock asphalt could not bid. He was interrupted by a delegate who raised a point of order that the speaker was not discussing a topic germane to the discussion.

The chair overruled the motion but called attention to the five minute rule and allowed Mr. Goodnight that length of time to finish.

The Breckenridge delegate registered a hard and vigorous kick against the roads existing in Louisville. He stated that Breckenridge did not seek favoritism, but demanded an equal chance with the Barber Asphalt Company in bidding for street work.

He was liberally applauded. The following is the editorial utterance of the Louisville Post regarding Mr. Goodnight's talk.

LOUISVILLE AND KENTUCKY.

The recent Commercial Convention in this city has brought to all the citizens of the state a realizing sense of the dual dependence of the city and state.

One of the delegates from Breckenridge county made a very natural inquiry of the city of Louisville upon the floor of the convention. He spoke for one of the richest counties in the state, but county most closely connected with the commercial interests of Louisville, one of the most productive counties in the state, possessing the most valuable asphalt road anywhere.

It is difficult to secure an introduction of this commodity because of the most unscrupulous of many monopolies whose beneficial influence is manifest in most of the cities of this country.

The delegate from Breckenridge, in rising of the inquiry, spoke not only for the producers in Breckenridge county; he spoke for the taxpayers of Louisville. The Evening Post has discussed heretofore the specifications approved by the Board of Public Works, by means of which specifications the company using the Breckenridge asphalt has been excluded from the city of Louisville.

The Evening Post is as much opposed as is the Board of works to the building of bad streets. The citizens of Breckenridge county do not ask the city of Louisville to use inferior material. The taxpayers have a right to require of their executive officers such rules and regulations as will secure the most active competition for street work. The citizens of Breckenridge county have a right to ask of the city of Louisville equal opportunity at least with the Barber monopoly.

This subject is not closed by the formal declaration of the Breckenridge Company that it would not under the present specifications bid for work in the city of Louisville. It is a matter of the first importance that this city should have a hundred miles of good streets. The streets must be built not by bonds, but by annual taxes. To secure the greatest benefit to the community they must be built at the least possible cost.

If we are to turn the streets over to the tender mercies of the Barber Asphalt Company, we must choose one of two things, either bankrupt the city in building the streets that we need, or else content ourselves with one or two miles of street each year, which will be about all we can afford.

A Good Opinion.

GARRETT, KY., May 3, 1898. J. M. Tindall, of this place, has a good opinion of the famous medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla, and is among those who are preating it to the highest terms. He says it has been used in his family as a blood purifier and appetizer with excellent results, and has relieved his wife of nervous headaches, to which she has been subject for many years.

Kentucky Road Law.

To protect and preserve the highways by withdrawing them from public use at times when they are likely to be injured by heavy travel is certainly a unique method of providing for the public welfare, but this is what the Kentucky statutes say:

"Any corporation, company or individual who may, by unusual use of a road, materially damage the same, shall repair all damages caused by the use of such road or roads. The supervisor or overseer of roads shall, at any time when necessary, notify said corporations, companies or individuals of their duty as provided in this section, and should the said parties so notified fail, in a reasonable length of time, to be filed in the notice, to make such repairs, such parties shall be deemed guilty of obstructing the public roads, and shall be subject to a fine of not exceeding $100, to be applied to road purposes."

Good Roads Fever Spreading.

The good roads fever has extended to even Central America. The Nicaraguans some time ago took quite a fancy to the wheel, and a large number of American roads are being improved there. There are no roads worth calling by that name in the southern republic, and the natives are anxious to get the same. They are building streets in San Juan del Sur and the beach, but they like the exercise so much that they are demanding to have roads to use their wheels on, and they are likely to get them.

CARE OF HIGHWAYS.

Value of Hedges to Break the Wind—Use of Shade Trees.
We have not had time to learn by actual experience as much about road care as we have concerning the construction of highways, but this part of the work must not be considered of less importance, writes A. A. Pope in The Outlook. Drainage is essential both for surface and for understructure, and yet great care should be taken to so arrange the grades as to avoid deep washouts on the surface or the loosening of the foundation.

Hedges of sufficient growth to protect the surface of the road from the violence of the wind will do a good deal to retain the dust, which plays so important a part in holding together the layers of broken stone. Country byways, where the shoulders of a regularly constructed macadam way of narrow width are allowed to grow over with a thick covering of turf, will more firmly hold themselves and the roadbed in place by preventing the rutting of the surface at the turnout places for wagons and by retaining in the roots of the grass sufficient moisture to assist in cementing the whole into a solid mass.

A moderate number of shade trees along the highways assists in preserving the surface of the road by preventing a complete evaporation of the water. Their chief danger is the possible disturbance of the foundation of the road by the spreading roots of the trees.

Local Brevities.

Mrs. Willis Clark is quite ill. Good roads benefit very much. Sunday was a real summer day. Buy your bread of Gregory & Gibson. Ice cream and soda water—City Bakery. Your wool wanted—M. Hamman & Son. Strawberries have dropped to twenty cents per gallon. You who have wool to be carded bring it to us—M. Hamman & Son. Henry Beatty has been appointed postmaster at Atkins, in this county. Agitate the working of roads and you will see an increase of business. Mr. Mat Lockard is treating up Vest's store with a coat of light green paint. E. H. Kingsbury has let contract for building the Fan Seed Mills for F. T. Heyer. The local freight business on the "Henderson Route" has wonderfully improved. When you are out shopping and want the purest groceries go to Gregory & Gibson's. Delicious sweet pickles, the choicest in the market can be had at Gregory & Gibson's. Tobaccoport farmers shipped fifty boxes of strawberries to Owensboro Monday. Dr. R. L. Newcom is having the Moorman homestead on Main street repaired and painted. Tow boat "Coal Bluff" passed up Saturday with two model barges loaded with heavy lumber. The most essential thing for the welfare and prosperity of all in this town is the construction of good roads. Judge J. H. DeHaven, who has been confined to his home with a slight attack of malaria is rapidly improving. The river is rising very rapidly. Since the big swell began it has gone up nine feet. A world of coal is now being towed. Having accepted the agency of the Tell City Woolen Mills we now want all of your wool for roll carding—M. Hamman & Son. Owen Keys, of Ludlow, has moved his family to this town and will occupy one of the residences belonging to H. A. Oates in Cow Hill. Have you been giving the bare question any thought, if not, let us inform you are headquarters and can supply food—Gregory & Gibson. Lighthouse Tender, "Golden Rod," a government boat, passed down Monday. She landed below the city to inspect the government light at this place. Henry Martin has improved the surroundings of his mill by erecting a new shed. That portion of the town is becoming quite a business center. Gilmore Bros. & Co. have placed a new brand of plug tobacco on the market. The plug is named "Plandit" and is much of a champion as the famous Derby Winner. In order for this town to be one of the best in the state, whether in business or not, all should unite themselves together. Then there would be quite a change of affairs. The special edition of the News has enjoyed a very wide circulation. Several copies of the paper have been mailed to Cuba, More and Honduras, by Cary Applepie, of Owensboro. Rub-N-More is a washing powder. It saves the rubbing of clothes and cleans them without wearing them out. It is the woman's friend. Costs 5 cents a package at Gregory & Gibson's. While out strolling these warm summer evenings and you becoming fatigued from walking, probably one of those refreshing and invigorating drinks from the City Bakery will be helpful. The severe wind of Saturday led to a great deal of wheat in Stillman's barn to the ground. The wheat is heading beautifully and was beginning to ripen. The damage done was quite heavy. Miss Ora Alexander, who has been teaching a private school, closed last week. Her term was a most successful one, which was observed from the pupils obtaining such high intellectual training. The Sunday school conference of the Owensboro M. E. church meets at Calhoun, Ky., June 2. John Barn, superintendent of the Methodist Sunday school of this city, is on the program for an address. The passenger business of the "Henderson Route" last Sunday was immense. About 25 percent took advantage of the excursion route to Louisville from this point and a large number of tickets were also sold to way stations. George Greer, who for several years has been associated with the "Henderson Route" as engineer, has tendered his resignation to take effect June 1. He will go to Nashville, Tenn., where he has accepted a like position with the L. & N.

Judge William Ahl, of Hardinsburg, came to the city yesterday. He was here for the purpose of inspecting Goshagen bridge and said in all probability it will be necessary to rebuild it. He will go to Mt. Pugh today to receive the bridge recently taken down. J. F. Gettenduff, representing the Galena Signal Oil Company, of Franklin, Pa., spent Monday in the city. He has just closed a large contract with the "Henderson Route" to supply them with oil and was here to inspect same as to whether or not it met with all requirements. He found it to be giving perfect satisfaction. W. J. Richard, of Hancock county, was here for the purpose of inspecting the bridge. He has been absent from this town for over a year and the roads are in such a fearful condition that it is almost impossible for him to travel home back. This clearly shows that everyone should unite and see to it that the roads leading to this town are put in a better state. Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Herndon will leave next week for Doe Run Sulphur Springs, in Meade county, where they will open a summer outing place known as "Camp Herndon," for the summer. Their daughters, Misses Ellen, Lettice and Wilda, will accompany them to spend the hot months—Louisville Post. This is an exceptionally fine summer resort and the presence of three such charming young ladies as the Herndon sisters, makes it still more attractive. GROVELAND. Gus Allen went to Brandenburg Saturday. E. K. Schultz passed through Saturday en route to Irvington. Gus Bruner is having a nice home built. Contract was given to Jim Osborne, of Guston. Jesse Willett, who has been in poor health for some time intends to make a short visit to Stephenville. Wilbur Sanders and Miss Mary Taylor, of Brandenburg, were guests of Miss Ella Jones Saturday night and Sunday. Andrew Carrio, of this place, is a member of the Meade county board of education. He is a deserving and promising young man. Sabbath school here is on a boom. A special study is being made of the Old Testament and history in addition to the regular lessons. George Hayes was in town Sunday. We learn that his brother Dea, is somewhere about the neighborhood. Like the cape Verde belt he is hard to locate. A meeting is being held at Rock Ridge near here, by Bros. J. C. and J. O. Willett. It will probably close next week. A good interest has been manifested. James Allen Bros. J. O. and J. C. Willett, E. K. Schultz and others will attend the ministers meeting at Nola, Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, and arrive at Nola Friday morning. The school teachers are making a new run now and report fine success. We hope that the new school teacher's salary in proportion to the tax is the supposition that the educational law, representing the attendance at schools, will be enforced this year. PROGRAM

Big Shipment of Strawberries.
The shipments of strawberries from this city are growing to great proportions. On Monday over 100 crates, representing about 2,000 gallons of the luscious fruit were shipped to various points. The bulk of the fruit is going to Louisville, Owensboro and Henderson and some shipments are being made to Morgansfield. Tobaccoport growers are in the lead, the largest shipments from that side being W. S. Leaf and F. M. Polk.

CHILDREN'S DAY
Appropriately Celebrated at the Methodist Church.
Flowers, Music and Bright Contentment Made the Event a Happy One.
Last Sunday was an ideal May day. Nature had on her gala dress and was in her brightest and most joyous mood. It was fitting that such a day be dedicated to the children and the promise of the "Children's Day" exercises at the Methodist church should indeed be proof of the unqualified success that crowned their efforts. The auditorium of the church was beautifully decorated with roses and choice flowers. There with the bright costumes of the children and worshippers made a scene of beauty that inspired all with the joy of living. The program that was rendered by the children was in keeping with the day. It was made up of songs, and recitations that voiced the sentiment "Suffer Little Children to Come unto Me." The duet by the Misses Liza May and Florence Cottrell was the incarnation of beauty. It was rendered with a fervor and spirit that shows both young ladies to be imbued with the true artistic feeling. The recitation by Miss Mary Harris exemplified the possibilities of elocution and was highly appreciated by the audience as was also that of Miss Louise Babage. County Superintendent of Sunday schools, V. G. Babage, addressed the congregation on the importance of Sunday school work. He pointed out the necessity of parents attending Sunday school and said that the presence and co-operation would make this feature of religious training more popular with the children. He illustrated his talk with pointed anecdotes and his address was greatly enjoyed by all. The Cuban question and political issues sink into insignificance with the man who suffers from the cold. What he needs, in relief, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cures piles, short & Haynes. DOLLAR WHEAT. Big Buyers Contracting For The New Crop. The wheat situation continues bright. European and Argentine reports show a comparatively short crop and notwithstanding the fact that a large yield will be made in this country this year, July and August deliveries are being contracted for at a price that will make the most conservative millers in the country say that wheat will be worth about 75 cents this year. Union county is the banner wheat county of Kentucky, and Newnam, Cambaro & Clement are the largest buyers there. That firm has always been noted for its good judgment and it made about $25,000 on last year's crop. It is understood that the firm is contracting for the new crop delivered at Uniontown at the basis of $1, and the indications are that the firm takes a reasonable view of the crop situation. ACREAGE CURTAILED. And There Will be No Overproduction of Tobacco. There are indications that the price of tobacco will be reasonably firm next year. Those who are crying overproduction should know that the high price being paid for wheat and other bread stuffs has caused an increased acreage to be planted in the cereal crops. This will naturally affect the production of tobacco. It is the opinion of experts that the new crop will not equal that of 1897. The acreage in Breckenridge county has been materially reduced. The warm weather of the past few days has been taken advantage of by our planters and but a part of the crop has been set. Buying Cavalry Horses. Will Smith, formerly of Holt's bottom, was in the city Friday. Mr. Smith holds a lucrative position with the Mendenhall Cattle Company at Owensboro, but during the past few weeks he has been over a good portion of this state, Indiana and Illinois buying cavalry horses. He says that wheat prospects are brighter than in years past. What Shall Be Done
FOR THE DELICATE GIRL.
You have tried iron and other tonics. But she keeps pale and thin. Her shallow complexion worries you. Perhaps she has a little lacking cough. And her head aches. Give her Scott's Emulsion. The oil will feed her wasting body, the glycerine will soothe her cough, and the hypophosphites will give new power and vigor to her nerves and brain. Never say you will not take cod liver oil until you have tried Scott's Emulsion. You will be obliged to change your opinion at once. Children especially become very fond of it and infants do not know when it is added to their food. You and blood; all druggists. SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York.

HARDINSBURG.
Deputy County Clerk, Clint Hook, is on the sick list. County Sunday School Convention, Saturday, June 4th. Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Jolly, Irvington, were visiting here last week. Mrs. Gus Stillman is in the country visiting her father's family. Miss Nancy J. Williams, of Bardonia, is the guest of Miss Irene Board. The Public Library has been opened at the drug store of Amos Kuehlo. Rev. E. N. Metcalf and family were here last week the guests of Rev. S. K. Reedling. Mrs. Owen Cunningham returned last Saturday from a visit to her father's, near Chenail. Mrs. Pennington, who has been the guest of friends, has returned to her home in Bardonia. Miss Mollie Greenwell and Miss Sallie Osborn, of Meade county, were here last week visiting Mrs. Oscar Burch. The directors of the B. N. college met last Saturday, and elected Prof. J. H. B. Logan principal of the college for the ensuing year. Mr. Ed Goodman is the first to bring strawberries to this market this season. The berries are of Mr. Goodman's own raising and are fine in quality. Last Friday and Saturday were examination days for teachers. Over 42 present attending the examination, and applying for certificates to teach. Notice. Go to A. A. Richardson, Gardfield, for your millinery goods. Hats trimmed in the very latest style by a first-class milliner. Full line of millinery and wall paper. All kinds of mercantile goods at the very lowest prices. Dr. Hart, of McDaniel, was in town one day last week. The doctor besides being engaged in the practice of medicine, is controlling one of the largest farming interests in that section. He had been engaged in it pretty extensively for several years for the reason that he was raised on a farm, and liked the business. Charles Mattingly sent his road machine into service last week on the Louisville road. He will work it as far as Gardfield. He will then work all the public roads leading out of town, as far as the district line extends. It is his intention to get them all in good shape before the dry weather sets in. Will Leamon is handling the machinery and he and Mr. Mattingly think they will be able to put the roads leading out there in better condition than they have been for many years. The book was out of the new library in a hurry last week. Some of the subscribers being hardly able to wait until they could be opened up and shelved.
